

Happy morning to you, team. It is the new month of October, and as they say, a mind that is stretched by a new experience can never go back to its old dimensions. Let us take the opportunity to embrace new experiences and expand our perspectives. This past weekend, on the 27th of September 2025, our team participated at the Ford 3-IN-1 Spring Race. They thrived, and their performances were super and remarkable. Keep up the good work.

Our annual CSIR Road Race is within walking distance of  days. We are enthusiastic about it, and I am sure it will make the grade and prosper. A big pat on the back to my co-organisers from this team. Your enthusiasm for collaboration is infectious and really helps us work together more effectively.

We will interact with precision to the public on various social media platforms (Instagram, Facebook, and X).

Put on your running shoes and join us for a day you won't forget. You bring the vibrancy and stamina, and we will bring the good times.

Way to go, team, and catch you later.
